

Holly Hagle, PhD, is Director of the Northeast Addiction Technology Transfer Center (ATTC) at the Institute for Research, Education and Training in Addictions (IRETA) in Pittsburgh, PA. Dr. Hagle has been actively working with healthcare providers since joining IRETA in 2003. She oversees all trainings and educational initiatives and serves as the curriculum specialist and developer. Dr. Hagle has been part of the ATTC since 2003 and is a member of the Technology Transfer workgroup as well as other ATTC committees. Since 2006, Dr. Hagle has been the curriculum specialist for the Addiction Training for Nurses using Screening, Brief Intervention and Referral to Treatment (ATN-SBIRT) federally funded project. She is an adjunct professor and trainer at Point

Park University in Pittsburgh, PA. Dr. Hagle has her BS in Psychology, MA in Curriculum and Instruction, and PhD in Education, Instructional Management and Leadership.

Kathryn R. Puskar, DrPH, RN, FAAN, is the Project Director of the Addiction Training for Nurses using Screening, Brief Intervention, and Referral to Treatment project funded by the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA). As a tenured professor at the University of Pittsburgh School of Nursing, Dr. Puskar teaches research, psychotherapy, and psychiatric nursing to master and doctoral students. She was a Past President of the American Psychiatric Nurses Association and has professional experience as a clinical nurse specialist, mental health administrator, private practice psychotherapist, and mental health consultant. Dr. Puskar is a Registered Nurse and has a Masters in Nursing in Psychiatric Nursing, Masters in Public Health specializing in Mental Health, and Doctorate in Public Health specializing in Health Services Administration.