Non-Tenure Stream NURSING FACULTY POSITIONS OPEN

The University of Pittsburgh School of Nursing seeks to fill the following full-time, non-tenure stream faculty positions with teaching responsibilities in:

- Adult medical-surgical
- Obstetrical
- Psychiatric Nursing (with certification as a clinical nurse specialist or nurse practitioner)
- Community Health
- Pediatric

Candidates applying for these positions are expected to hold an earned doctorate and RN licensure in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The School is also seeking a full-time certified Psychiatric Mental Health Nurse Practitioner, who must be licensed or eligible for licensure in Pennsylvania as an RN and CRNP.

Applications are also being accepted for a full-time certified nurse midwife.

All applicants should present a record of effective teaching and significant clinical experience in appropriate care settings.

Ranked seventh in U.S. News and World Report’s “2011 America’s Best Graduate Schools” and fifth in National Institutes of Health (NIH) research dollars awarded, the University of Pittsburgh School of Nursing seeks to advance nursing science, education and practice. Founded in 1939, the School of Nursing has prepared students for an increasingly demanding health care environment through a curriculum that combines rigorous academic work with varied and intensive clinical experiences in applied practice and a growing involvement in research.

The University of Pittsburgh, internationally recognized as a center of learning and research, is also one of Western Pennsylvania’s largest employers. More than 3,800 full-time faculty staff members and 6,700 full-time, non-faculty members are employed on the Pittsburgh campus. Pitt, a dynamic workplace with opportunities for career growth and development, is located in a city that offers the cultural and social advantages of a vibrant urban environment. The University of Pittsburgh is accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools and additionally by various specialized accrediting agencies. Furthermore, Pitt is an elected member of the Association of American Universities, an invitation-only organization of 61 preeminent doctorate-granting research institutions in the United States and Canada.

Salary and academic rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. The starting date is negotiable and applications will be accepted until positions are filled. The University of Pittsburgh School of Nursing offers an excellent salary, health and tuition benefits, and retirement package and the University is ranked by The Scientist as the 4th best place to work in academia in the United States in 2013.

How to apply:
Send a letter of application and curriculum vitae to Dr. Jacqueline Dunbar-Jacob, Dean, 350 Victoria Building, University of Pittsburgh School of Nursing, Pittsburgh, PA 15261. E-mail: dunbar@pitt.edu. The University of Pittsburgh is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and values equality of opportunity, human dignity and diversity.

For more information, please visit www.nursing.pitt.edu or call 412-624-3866.